POLITICAL DREAMS
AND POLITICAL SANITY.

Some of the Democratic organs persist in saying that Bryan was an angel in the late campaign, and some of the Keystone organs insist that Tamm was the nominee of "Jim" Mulvihill, a Westmoreland county brewer.

As a matter of fact, this is the one particular political campaign in which Colonel Bryan did not figure, and in which outside of his native State of Nebraska he took no part. He stood for no national issue. He permitted the Democratic party to fight his battles without his assistance. The party fought about so well that the leaders in the victorious movement in Ohio and New York are likely to be the leaders in the new dispensation in 1912.

All this is not to the liking of Colonel Bryan and his frothy disciples, but it is nevertheless true. Putting aside the petty personal allusions of a Democratic-revenue-only organ of Fayette county, we repeat that William Jennings Bryan has since his political swan song, and not even the loud bray of a Dumbie male can recall it.

The notion that one Mulvihill, recently convicted of defrauding the Westmoreland county ballot, dictated the nomination of John K. Tamm, is a political fiction fit for Sir John Maudeville or Dr. Cocke. The nomination of Tamm undoubtedly had the endorsement of Senator Penrose, and this was undoubtedly the only honest objection to him. Mulvihill is a professed Democrat and could not have, and did not have, any voice or influence in the Republican State Convention, certainly no such potentiality as has been freely attributed to him.

If Democratic and Keystone organs must dream dreams, for heaven's sake let them have the semblance of political sanity.

PUGNACIOUS EDITORS AND STRAW VOTE PROPHECIES.

Colonel Charles Alexander Rook, editor of the Pittsburgh Dispatch by right of inheritance, and Honorable George Tamm, editor of the Pittsburgh Gazette Times by right of purchase, seem to be rival candidates for United States Senator, though as a matter of fact they are not.

The Dispatch which has recently acquired the straw vote habit, perhaps because of its numerous circulation contents, generously offered to take the political sense of the Western Pennsylvania voters on the Senatorship. Though Editor Rook's candidacy was wholly unannounced, strange to say he ran ahead of Editor Oliver, whereupon the latter instructed that the ballot box was then stuffed. It also proceeded to scold Editor Rook in the most ineffectual literary style. Editor Rook, who also writes pieces for his paper sometimes in kind, and the money was in.

Without any intention of butting into this terrible contest, we may recur briefly to some remarks made in these columns, just after the recent election, on the reliability of the straw vote as an indication of public sentiment. It will be recalled that it was one of the Keystone methods of campaigning, and, as a symmetrical Keystone organ, The Dispatch indulged in it freely and drew the conclusion that the undoubted choice of the people for Governor was one William H. Leroy.

The Dispatch was mistaken then, and perhaps it will be mistaken now if it assumes that its straw vote will elect Editor Rook or anybody else to the office of United States Senator.

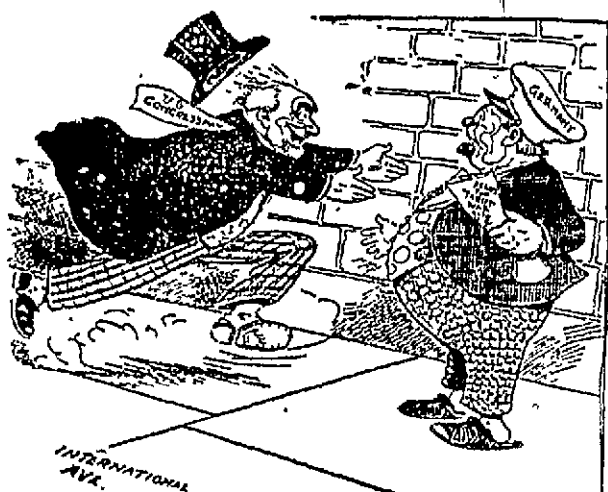

BLAIRSVILLE'S
DRY HOLE.

Blairsville is small but enterprising. It has just finished drilling a well in the hope that gas would be found; or, if not, maybe oil; and, in any event, it was thought certain that a good water supply might be had if all else failed. But Blairsville had bad luck. Its well proved a dry hole after exciting the citizens by striking a pocket of gas and some slight signs of greasy fluid. What to do with the hole is now the absorbing question. The Blairsville Courier makes the following suggestions:

As the building season is at an end it will hardly be possible to use it for fuel. Of course post holes are always in more or less demand, but it is not likely that any one would care to pay $100 per linear foot for empty holes. One of the best suggestions concerning its use is that it be left open so that we Keystoneans who predicted heavy election by a couple of million, more or less may have a heaven of refuge. There is one thing certain, namely, that a hole that has cost as much as this one should be put to practical use in some way or other. It would be an awful pity should 275 feet of 10-inch hole go to waste. If the worst comes, let it be devoted to the job of taking the mud up in furnishing holes for the documents they make.

Blairsville citizens shouldn't take it too much to heart. They are not the only people who ever bored a dry hole. Conneltsville had a similar experience some years ago, but the effort proved at least one thing, namely, that Conneltsville was progressive. Fayette county is dotted with dry holes put down fifty years ago when the oil excitement swept over us, and these were not drilled by communities, but by companies and individuals less able to bear the loss.

Better a dry hole than a dried up town.

U. S. Congressman—Thanks, Germany! Your tariff war agitation will furnish me with material for speeches for at least six months.

MODERN SIDEWALK
CONSTRUCTION.

Scottsdale's Town Council has passed a paving ordinance in which further construction of brick sidewalks is absolutely barred.

The Courier has protested against the brick sidewalk for several years past because of its capacities for ruining the clothing and robbing the tempers of the citizens. The majority of brick walks are so poorly laid that they soon become full of holes and consequently full of puddles in bad weather, or bricks will become loose and when trodden upon will spout muddy water like small geysers.

Brick sidewalks can be laid in such manner as to avoid in a great measure all those troubles. Brick sidewalks are not durable. At best they are a poor investment from the point of permanency. They should not be permitted unless constructed on certain specific lines.

Sidewalk construction has passed from the brick to the cement age.

The New Salem correspondent of the Philadelphia organ of Fayette county declares that the election there was run-raked and rotten. The use of whiskey at the polls is to be denounced and the policy of the law is against it, yet it is not in evidence that the poll was corrupted. He declares that the poll was run-raked and rotten. He declares that the poll was run-raked and rotten. He declares that the poll was run-raked and rotten.

Pittsburgh Journalism is getting absolutely personal.

Scottsdale is so sure a new gas contract, but it's not much better than the old ones which we less favored municipalities don't have.

Marshall county coal continues to be speculative rather than developmental.

The Trusts are termed by politicians in Germany, and the Dutch seem to like 'em.

Unlabeled boasts that she has more wealth than the Rothschilds. We have always admitted the self-impairment, but we will venture to assert that Conneltsville has more wealth in its coal than the Rothschilds have in their money.

In Kentucky, justice is administered behind the haystack when necessary.

Richard Croker, ex-boss of Tammany Hall, for some years past a resident of New York, has been elected to the office of Mayor of New York City.

Unlabeled was vigorously fanned by Mad Island last night.

Our Rockwater Democrat contains, says the Waynesburg News, a copy of the practice of corrupting the ballot in Greene county is not so certain as it was a few years ago.

This is encouraging. Perhaps Jesse took when running for Governor with its impudent appeal for Pure Politics has not died in vain.

The Italian vendetta has spread to the Conneltsville coke region.

Some West Virginia coke operations are doing better than those of the Conneltsville region, not because they have better coke, but because they have home markets and sell their own coke.

The United States Government buys coal by heat units and not by blind tons.

Columbia coal is being optioned. There are better coals but they are not so handy to Johnstown's mills and factories.

The persistent reports that there is a coal famine in the Northwest do not seem to have any more effect upon the Pittsburgh coal trade than the Chicago announcement of lower meat prices has on the Conneltsville butcher shops.

When it gets properly fixed up it does not take long for a coke-stack to become a coke-wick.

Things are getting wild in Mexico but if the situation does not improve there is no doubt that it will become a coke-wick.

Doctor Cropper was found guilty chiefly because he ran away. The guilty do when no man pursues.

Conneltsville is promised a real skating rink this winter. There will be no charge save on the trolleys.

The Western Maryland welcome will be numerous as well as cordial.

The railroad route to Cuba has been pushed into the sea as far as possible, and the remainder of the trip must be made by water until the air line is established.

Conneltsville is on the eve of civilization. It won't hurt any.

Table Linens

Not Only for Thanksgiving
But for Every Day in the Year.

But of course, the best are always shown on Thanksgiving. Not a woman anywhere but puts her best foot forward in beautifying her table for this ever welcome annual spread. And the attractiveness of your table depends very much upon your linens. Just a word about QUALITY. Many things to be considered here. Their absolute purity; the weight; fullness of weave; the width and how about the patterns. Not one woman in a hundred but can be deceived. What then? Buy only where you are positive of getting good value. Over a quarter of a century in the buying and selling of high grade linens places us in a most favorable position to supply your needs. Reputation should go a long way with the woman who is not an expert in judging quality. We stand responsible for the quality and the patterns speak for themselves. Showing quite a big assortment of fine satin damasks with napkins to match. Here at all prices up to $2.50 a yard. We've a specially good 72 inch strictly all pure satin damask, good weight, and new patterns with napkins to match that's hard to beat at $1.00 yard.

Table Sets.—All new designs in patterns for round or square tables; a grand assortment that will tempt any woman. $5.00 to $18.00

Good Taste

Low Prices

VERSUS

"I never had a customer who didn't want higher priced furniture than she could afford," said a prominent merchant the other day.

Do you know why this is?

Nearly all the cheap furniture you see in stores is out of harmony with even moderate good taste.

Factories put less attention on their cheaper designs, and buyers as a rule select from these, with but little care.

But we have given this end of our business unusual attention.

Sometimes we have picked just one single, low-priced design that was good, from a whole factory output.

You can get low-priced goods here that you will be proud to own.

USUALLY When the Design of a Table Suits Your Taste, the Price Does Not.

In the Tables, which we have unpacked today, the designs are beautiful. No finer appearing Tables ever were sold in Conneltsville, and every table is built as well as it looks.

We selected the best Tables made by a number of factories, and we bought them at prices, which will save you a lot of money if your dining room needs a Table now.

SCOTSDALE TOWN COUNCIL MEETS.

The Gas Ordinance Got Through Two Readings Last Night.

STILL IS MYSTIFYING ON

No Agreement Came With the Ordinance and It Will Have To Be Along Before Third Reading and Final Passage—Two Other Ordinances.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, Nov. 22.—Scottsdale Town Council held a called meeting last evening to consider three proposed ordinances, the most vital of which was the one giving new franchises to the Fayette County Gas Company, and which provides that an agreement may be entered into between the company and the borough in behalf of the consumers for a supply of gas for 25 years at 20 cents per thousand feet. At least that is the way the members of Council understand the matter, although from what H. C. Dist, the Superintendent from Conneltsville, said at a meeting prior to this the 25 years agreement only applies to the borough buildings, and the consumers may be charged what the company feels like. Mr. Dist admitted that perhaps that wasn't the understanding that existed between Vice President J. M. Carrard and the committee but the same old story cropped up again last night. No agreement accompanied the ordinance and Council thus were left in the dark as to that feature. They are ready to pass the ordinance with some changes they had made, but they want to know what kind of an agreement they are to be lined up with. Several members from President Hughes to the members from each ward and the Gas Committee said flatly that if the agreement is to concern only the supply of gas for the borough building they are out of any consideration of it. W. H. Sheltzer said "I wouldn't waste a moment's breath on it." This sentiment seemed general. The ordinance was passed on two readings and Secretary F. M. Newcomer will get in communication with the gas company that they may bring along the agreement to accompany the ordinance when it comes up for third reading and final passage. The ordinance provides among other things that if the company refuses or fails to supply gas the rights cease and the company must remove all its property from the borough within six months. An indemnifying bond of $15,000 is to be filed to assure that the company will not sue and keep harmless the borough from any damage from the operation of the company and an additional bond of $5,000 is to be put to cover the replacement of the franchise and removal of the pipes or other property.

The sidewalk ordinance, a long one, too, was read and passed on the preliminary readings. There was a great deal of talk over this ordinance, but finally it was put in good shape. The elimination of the old fashioned brick sidewalks, which this season so often others, is doing its dreadful work of ruining clothing and temper. There was an attempt in the ordinance to prevent people in certain sections from putting down anything but concrete or flagstone, but the manifest injustice of this was commented upon. The idea of allowing some other place to be burdened with the shiffling, mud-pumping pavements was abandoned. If you want to look at it in that way, it was fixed up that no more brick pavements at all shall be put down. The ones that already are here may be repaired under proper conditions but the design is to get clear away with them. A suggestion was made that they ought to be some law about shade trees, where and of what kind they are to be. People have a great habit here of planting poplars that have a root system that will hunt a sewer out and just calmly choke it to several yards away. A lot of towns say "nice" to the poplar. Another ordinance fixing the shade tree business ought to be put up and through. The ordinance prohibiting the erection of wooden buildings with certain limits was brought out after having been saved apart and nailed together again to better suit the members. No wooden or frame buildings are to be built in certain sections and permits must be had before beginning to build, then there is the prohibition of roofs of wood or other combustible material. This does not apply to small buildings or outhouses used as chicken coops, coal houses or closets and the like. When the said building does not cover more than 100 square feet. The ordinance went through a couple of readings. Those present at the meeting were President J. L. Hughes, J. M. Carrard, J. M. Pyle, W. T. Massey, A. B. Hudley, H. G. Martz, J. M. Barry, W. H. Sheltzer, Frank Barclay, W. L. Schaffer and J. M. Carrard.

Justice Hughes Is Youngest Member

United Press Telegram.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Should Associate Justice Charles E. Hughes be made Chief Justice of the United States, he will not only be the youngest member of the present Supreme Bench, but the youngest presiding Justice, save two, in the history of the court. John Jay, appointed in 1789 by President Washington, was at that time 35 years of age, and John Marshall, appointed in 1801, was 45. Hughes is now 48 years old.

There have been eight Chief Justices since the creation of the court in 1789—Jay, who was 35 at the time of his selection; Rutledge, 60; Ellsworth, 61; Marshall, 45; Taney, 59; Chase, 66; Waite, 68; and Fuller, 65. Everyone of the present Justices of the Supreme Court is at least 13 years older than Hughes. Harlan, who has been presiding Justice since Chief Justice Fuller's death, is 67. White, 65; McKenna, 67; Holmes, 69; Day, 61, and Lurion, 64.

WASH THAT ITCH AWAY.

It is said that there are certain springs in Europe that give relief and cure to Eczema and other skin diseases. If you know that by washing in these waters you could be relieved from that awful itch, wouldn't you make every effort to take a trip to Europe at once? Would you not be willing to spend your last cent to find the cure?

But you need not leave home for these distant springs. Relief is right here in your own home town! A simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients as compounded only in D. D. Prescription will bring instant relief to that terrible burning itch, and leave the skin as smooth and healthy as that of a child. If you have not already tried it, get at least a 25 cent bottle today. We assure you of instant relief. J. C. Moore, Druggist, Water street.

WRITE TO THIS WOMAN

If You Want to Stop a Man From Drink.

She cured her husband, her brother and several of her neighbors, and now she generously offers to tell you of the simple, inexpensive remedy that she so successfully used. The Ups and Downs of Trusts In the Land of Kaiser Wilhelm.

United Press Telegram.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The ups and downs of trusts in Germany and the rapid increase in the number of combinations are described in a consular report from Düsseldorf. They call them "syndicates" in the Kaiser's domain but they seem to be applying trust methods to many industries. The report says:
"The Steel Works Syndicate appears to be a permanent German institution. The big iron syndicate has not met with the same success and the Lorraine-Luxemburg Syndicate has given a failure. The heavy metal plate manufacturers have formed a syndicate which appears to have improved prices. The lighter metal plate manufacturers are at present trying to form a syndicate. A price convention has also been formed among wire manufacturers—drawn wire and wire nail makers.
"The Pipe Syndicate has had many difficulties to contend with; a good number of very powerful works did not join the syndicate and it has been obliged to fight for its very existence. The Steel Cast Goods Syndicate has been renewed both in the district and in Upper Silesia. The River Syndicate has been strengthened by a number of new powerful members. The International Steamer Harpell has also been strengthened by the addition of a number of Russian works. The syndicate movement has also spread to a number of other metal industries: an International Zinc Furnace Syndicate and an International Lead Syndicate have been formed and at present an International Copper Syndicate is being formed.
"The timber industry has additional syndicates. The Match Syndicate has been formed to safeguard the match trade, particularly necessary at present, as the government has placed heavy taxes on matches.
"Important amalgamations have taken place during the last 12 months. Some prominent shipping lines and some large banks have amalgamated; one of the most important of the year was the amalgamation of a mining company and a furnace-owning concern with a shipping company."

Tame Bears in Yellowstone Are Dangerous

United Press Telegram.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Tame bears are almost as dangerous to humans as wild grizzlies, according to the annual report of the Acting Superintendent of Yellowstone National Park, Major H. C. Benson, of the Fifth Cavalry, made public today. In part Benson says:
"Many complaints were received during the summer of damages in various camps by bears. They frequently become so tame that they do not hesitate to destroy tents or go through windows into houses to secure food, and sometimes they refuse even to be driven away.
"One man working in a camp near Excelsior Geyser was quite severely bitten and scratched by a bear that he tried to drive away from the camp tent during the night. He was confined to the hospital for 12 days as a result of his injuries, and his companion who ran to his assistance also received some scratches. It was thought that it would become necessary to kill some of those vicious bears and many requests to do so were received from parties who suffered from their depredations, but this was not resorted to.
"A herd of 29 wild buffalo was seen in Pelican valley on February 23, and a small herd of five was seen on Cache creek on February 3. One bull died during the winter in the vicinity of Yellowstone Lake, and its skeleton and ribs were sent to the National Museum, Washington, as specimens.
"Moose are frequently seen in the southern and also in the southwestern parts of the park, and are believed to be increasing in number.
"The estimated number of elk in the park is from 30,000 to 40,000. Many of these elk wander out of the park into adjoining States, and a few of them are killed during the season. An occasional one may also be killed inside the border of the park, but such poaching is very limited.
"Deer and antelope are still numerous in the park although during the winter many antelope escape from the boundary. Both the black-tailed, or mule deer, and the white-tailed or Virginia deer, are found in the park. About 300 of the black-tailed and 100 of the white-tailed were fed during the past winter.
"The herd of tame buffalo under fence in the park continues to thrive and the increase is satisfactory. The herd now numbers 121 head, of which 25 are this year's calves. Probably 6,000 tourists visited this herd during the summer, it being one of the main features of the stop at Mammoth Hot Springs.
"The grand total of visitors in the season of 1910 is given approximately as 19,575. Ten small fires were discovered but they were extinguished by the park patrol and soldiers during the summer."

Tonsiline Prevents Diphtheria
Diphtheria is the most dreaded disease of childhood, because it is so often fatal. It is invariably preceded by Sore Throat—nature's danger signal. At the appearance of Sore Throat the first thought should be its quick cure. Don't regard it lightly—don't think it may be gone tomorrow. An hour's delay may bring fatal results.
What good doctor in his practice now advises delay or thinks lightly of any Sore Throat, especially in children?
Modern medicine wisely endeavors to quickly control and cure the simpler forms of disease—it's so much easier and so much safer than waiting for the grave diseases to follow.
It is right here and in this way that TONSILINE has its greatest value. Tonsiline has positively cured the Sore Throat and thereby prevented the dread disease—Diphtheria.
Tonsiline is the one remedy, sold largely throughout the United States, exclusively for the cure of Sore Throat. It is used so often but it does its whole duty every time. TONSILINE has justly earned the success it has achieved as a Sore Throat Cure.
Buy a bottle today and have it ready for instant use.
Tonsiline is the stich in time. 25 cents, and 50 cents, Hospital Size $1.00. All Druggists.

Cure for Liquor Habit.

Give Orline and Destroy All Desire Solid Under Guarantee.
Orline is the most successful cure for the liquor habit that the world has ever known. It is a home treatment, given without publicity, detection from business or loss of time, and is absolutely guaranteed if the simple directions on each box are carefully followed. The remarkable have been the changes brought about suffering drinking men by Orline that leading ministers, clergymen, philanthropists and druggists extol to the recovery of the treatment. Thousands of endorsements have been given for the remedy.
Read this one from the Quaker Drug Co., Seattle, Wash.:
"During the past five years we have sold thousands of packages of Orline, and have never heard of a case of relapse in the highest terms of praise. We have dozens of people come to us and say that they had dropped with the cure of Orline, or dear ones from the curse of drunkenness. (Orline is one of the few articles on the market that we can conscientiously recommend to our friends and we do so daily feeling that we have done what is our duty as well as a favor.)
Orline is prepared in two forms, No. 1, a powerful medicine, and No. 2, a harmless, given secretly in food or drink. Orline No. 2, in pill form is for those who wish to cure themselves. Orline costs only $1 a box. In every box is a guarantee which entitles you to a refund of your money if Orline fails to effect a cure. Write for Free Orline Booklet, entitled in plain sealed envelope, to Orline Co., 418 Orline Building, Washington, D. C. Orline is for sale in this city by Barker's Pharmacy, 120 S. Pittsburg St.
They know Orline is a reliable and efficacious remedy for drunkenness and they will not offer you a substitute."

HUSBAND ELOPED

With the Sister of His Wife at Morgantown, Nov. 22.—When Mrs. Moon arrived here from Point Marion Saturday, in search of her husband, she found that he had eloped with her younger sister, Miss Wolfe of the Chest Neck neighborhood. The couple had left for some unknown place, leaving a note for their sister, Mrs. Moon, showing that Mr. Moon had secured a pass for two over the B. & O. to St. Louis.
Moon is an engineer and formerly resided in Connelville. Some time ago he packed his household belongings and shipped them to Point Marion, but he never unpacked the furnishings nor has he been seen by his wife since the goods arrived at the little steam factory town. Mrs. Moon came to the prosecuting attorney's office, asking that the prosecutor assist her in her search for her husband.

MISS SELINA LUE

and the Soap-box Babies

COPYRIGHT 1909, THE BOBBY-MERRILL COMPANY

As he disappeared behind the barn he heard Dennis's shrill voice high up in the air saying: "Oh, Miss Cynthia, we've named him for Mr. Flarity because he got him for us, but the first puppy he has we are going to give to you."

"It's a boy puppy you can name it for Mr. Alan, too," chimed in Ethel Maud, with boundless enthusiasm, showing in the tone of her voice and shining through the dirt on her little face. "Ain't he just, the cutest puppy?"

By this time they had arrived at the steps and were, figuratively speaking, in the house. Miss Selina Lue, though, young Miss Maud, occupied that position literally, as she seated herself on the steps the better to enjoy his company. She looked up at Miss Cynthia, with shining eyes.

"Honey," she said, "I was thinking I had got to making you out in my mind prettier than you was, but I see it was foolish way round. Where have you kept yourself for more'n a week?"

Miss Cynthia answered her from the top step where she had settled down in affectionate embrace with Blossom, whose flower head nestled against her friend's cheek with a contented little sigh. "I have been busy, Miss Selina Lue—and a little bit worried. I came down, hoping for a county time with you. You—your—always seem so busy—and water-tainted these days that I—"

"Why, Miss Cynthia, child, what-never do you mean?—I ain't never too busy for bothers to be told to me, and I always have been entertained from free chicken when I get up to shake up the stove and bustle the back door, until I put out the lamp at night. But night or day I want to hear anything you might have to say."

"I know you do, Miss Selina Lue, and I wanted to come, but—"

"Looks like there's a special sort of string tied 'round you and me, and my huggin' of you—my hug have drawn you to me—just as it did to tell me, 'Why, there did he go all of a sudden?—And Blossom and Ethel Maud and Lillie after him, 'I'll be bound.' It Blossom and Jim here could walk they would be handin' on him somewhere." Miss Selina Lue was intent on a shifting of young Jim's swaddling bands and failed to catch the expression on the fair face bent over Blossom's yellow head, which was anything but acquiescent.

"Is Blossom then so sickle a person that she only stays with me because she hasn't the locomotive powers to run away? Why, Miss Selina Lue, think of the affection I have—"

"Law, child, I was just a-scanning on; but I guess Blossom is like the rest of women folk, a-follering the smiling eye of a man as far and as long as he'll let her. What else Ethel Maud now?"

From around the barn appeared the three deserters, Ethel and Lillie and the lead with Ethel Maud, trailing sobbing behind. "Taint nothing the matter with her," announced Ethel with scorn. "She's just bawling, 'cause Mr. Alan couldn't take us up the river with him. He says he ain't coming home till night, Miss Selina Lue, and done't want no dinner or nothing."

"I believe he's mad 'cause we didn't name the puppy 'Hoo-hoo-hoo,'" wailed Ethel Maud, whose intonations were most truly feminine.

"He ain't tall! Didn't you tell him that Miss Cynthia was a-going to name the one we're going to give her for him? It was just because you hung on his leg and cried so, I heard him say something about 'bothering girls.' So shut up and let's take the puppy down and see if Mr. Loeke thinks it's time to cut his tail off yet."

"Oh—ho—ho, Miss Selina Lue, don't let him cut off his tail, please! What would the poor little dead tail do without the puppy? Oh—oh—oh—"

"Now, Ethel Maud, don't cry, honey. Dennis ain't cut off the puppy's tail until the time comes, and then, you'll have to stand it like we all stand afflictions what has to come. Don't you want to carry Jim across the street to his mother? Will you be right careful with him?" Ethel Maud, instantly pacified, reached out and clutched the bundle offered her with an inarticulate, cowering murmur. Miss Cynthia stepped with remonstrance.

"Don't worry, child, Ethel Maud nurses every baby on the bluff regular, and I seen Mr. Peters let her tote Jim down to Spout Spring only yesterday. We bluff folks has to trust the babies to the good Lord a heap of the time, though I must say some of the mothers seem to leave 'em on his hands more'n is fair."

The children trooped down the street, and with a little sigh of relief, contentment, the Blossom soliloquy continued. Miss Cynthia's arm and closed her long, fringed lids over her wondering baby eyes.

Miss Selina Lue tenderly regarded the picture the girl and the rosy baby made in the open doorway, and said as she moved a step nearer, "Honey, what's been a-bothering you? Would it help to tell me? Is your—ma, woman?"

"No, Miss Selina Lue, not worse; it's the mortgage again. Mr. Peters was out Monday, and he says the whole place will have to be sold. He has a good proposition from the land company, which wants to have and improve the whole tract and push it on the market for us; but they must have the house too, for the situation is valuable and they can sell it to the golf club, which will insure the sale of all the lots. If we don't take their offer, it means we shall have to sell it all at a disadvantage and perhaps only make the mortgage. Mother refuses to decide it for herself and has left it to me. What shall I do? I don't want to sell my home, but there seems to be way to keep it. Miss Cynthia's lips quivered, but her eyes smiled heavily down at Miss Selina Lue.

"Honey, my heart is just aching for you, but there ain't nobody can tell what a mortgage and a golf club will do. If worst comes to worst, we can build another room by tearing down some lumber shed the barn, and you can bring your ma right here to live with me. I would admire to have her." Miss Selina Lue made her offer with heroic eagerness, for she and the invalid Mrs. Jackson Page had failed to find the accord which existed between the grocery owner and the action of all the Jacksons and Pages, their few late views had been marked by great cordiality for the sake of their common interest in the conductor thereof.

"Miss Selina Lue, you are a darling, and I would rather be a soap-boxer than almost anything; but we shall have a small competency if we sell now in the right way. It's giving up the home—I'm afraid it will kill her—she worries so."

"No, it won't, honey, not when she's got you—you'd be a set-off against any kind of trouble. Leaving an old home is a wrench, as I found when I hitched up and started down from Warren county; and Miss Cynthia, I left graves behind me that I might not never see again in this world. But it looks like the Lord floated mine and Charley's mother's ark on the right mountain, and He'll do the same by you and your ma. Now, don't go and mistrust His wisdom in selecting mountains."

"Oh, Miss Selina Lue, I know you would say the right thing about it all. What would I do without you?" and Miss Cynthia's slim white hand stole in Miss Selina Lue's strong brown one, whose sympathetic clasp was only rendered the closer by the smudges of sorghum of the Kinney molasses pitcher which held their fingers tight together.

"Looks like I couldn't hardly stand it if I couldn't sit even the edge of my shoulder under any burden you was carrying, honey. Now, I've got something to show you that'll take your mind often all distractions. Lay Blossom in her box and come along to me to the barn."

Considering its relation to the grocery and the bluff in general, the place was a large and roomy structure. It was large and roomy and sat on the brow of the bluff overlooking the river, while the little handful of houses that clustered about the grocery seemed stranded at its feet. It had been built for the teams that had worked on the dam up the river, and had become the property of the grocery owner for a long when the work that had brought the horses and men to the settlement was finished. The army had moved on, leaving the barn and the grocery in a sort of guardianship of the few families which elected to stay and find work on the river or over in the city. Only the Hill Mansion of Mrs. Jackson Page farther up the river on the bluff had any such outlook, and for all its wide, pillared verandas and spreading wings it filled entirely to dwarf the insignificance of the barn.

"Is it a new calf, Miss Selina Lue?" demanded Miss Cynthia as they entered the door together.

"Lands alive, child, the little spotted one ain't more'n two months old, what's told to Mr. St. Bradford's cousin on count of the richness of Charley's milk to raise from."

"I beg your pardon, madam," said Miss Cynthia with elaborate courtesy, as she threw Charley a bough of sugar maple leaves she had pulled for that exact purpose on the way up. Charley gave her tail a friendly switch and her large soft eyes roamed over the radiant vision by her stall with placid appreciation.

"I believe he's mad 'cause we didn't name the puppy for him—Hoo-hoo."

Don't you want to carry Jim across the street to his mother? Will you be right careful with him?" Ethel Maud, instantly pacified, reached out and clutched the bundle offered her with an inarticulate, cowering murmur. Miss Cynthia stepped with remonstrance.

"Don't you and Charley gossip too long," called Miss Selina Lue from half-way up the ladder. "Mind your dress don't get sagged on that nail there."

A little, breathless, Miss Cynthia pushed her head up through the opening and cautiously swung herself to the door above; then, halted and stood spellbound. The barn loft had become another world. A large window that stretched half across the end, opened out to the blue hills across the valley, and the river wound through the picture like a silver thread. On the walls were yough sketches and some pictures, held and staring, and in the middle of the room stood an easel on which was a huge canvas. A cot with one of Miss Selina Lue's old patchwork quilts covering it stood in one corner, and a familiar gray coat hung from a peg.

With horror Cynthia realized that she was in the camp of the enemy, and her first inclination was for precipitous flight, but Miss Selina Lue's bright eyes held her and for the life of her she could not voice her dismay to that plainly overjoyed lady.

"Now, there!" she exclaimed, breathless from the climb and from delight. "I've got you here at last, and I can see how happy you are from your face. Ain't it a surprise to have an art gallery set against up at your back door unbeknownst to you or anybody else? It do beat all how that boy can paint! Now come here and get a good light on this one here in the middle. You would think that any light up here would be a good one, with that big window be knocked in the wall there—Mr. Flarity helping him of nights, and Mr. Dobbs spitting in the glass—but it ain't, and you've got to step around to get the right view of them."

Miss Cynthia stood before the canvas, lost, unable to utter a word. He had painted the sunset hour on the wharf and the roundabout unloading of hay from up the river in the middle light. It was tremendous, decorative thing of which Miss Cynthia had never seen the equal.

"It's a order for a big building in Chicago, and Miss Cynthia, what do you think? It's to be hung on the walls of a room where workmen can go and have meetings, and some big rich men are going to pay him two thousand dollars for this one and ten more. I tell you he don't make nothing but a name, a name, a name, 'art' he don't! All three of 'em are to be about the doing of something, and I think it will be mighty uplifting to men that has to work as hard as they men does to have a great artist paint pictures of the doing of it. He says this one is his best—has got more climate than the others."

"More climate?" asked Miss Cynthia in a small voice.

"Yes, climate all around it. Like that sunset light on the prow of the boat and the men's backs and side."

"Didn't he call it atmosphere?" ventured Miss Cynthia delicately.

A BAD COLD IS EASILY BROKEN.

The Most Severe Cold and Grippe Milder Will Be Relieved In Just a Few Hours.

There is not one grain of quinine in Paper's Cold Compound, which, when taken every two hours, until three consecutive doses are taken, will surely and fast relieve and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

It promptly relieves the most miserable neuralgic pains, headaches, dullness, hoarseness, sore throat, running of the nose, catarrhal affections, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges. Paper's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere in the world which will cure your cold or grippe, wherever you promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25 cent package of Paper's Cold Compound, which your druggist in the world can supply.

OUT OF HEALTH

is a very common expression. Are you one of the unfortunate—and what is the cause?

There are hundreds of people right in this vicinity who have poor blood, are run-down, all tired out with no strength, vitality or ambition.

We want to ask all such people to call at our store and get a bottle of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, which is made without oil and very palatable.

"We claim it will make pure, rich red blood, and impart new life, energy and strength to every person who does not feel well. If it fails we will return your money—without question. Isn't this a fair and generous offer?"

A case is reported from Leipsic, but C. H. Cutting was troubled with indigestion—was weak—all run-down. She says Vinol cured her stomach trouble—restored her strength—and made her feel like a new woman. Any one in this condition can get the same benefit from Vinol. A Cold Winter in The Army

United Press Telegram.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—It's a hard, cold winter in the Army. Soldiers must economize on food and fuel, and the Army is in a tight place.

The appropriation for regular supplies, fiscal year 1911, is $1,160,000 less than the amount appropriated for the fiscal year 1910. It therefore becomes necessary to reduce expenditures on all items chargeable to this appropriation, and especially so in the cost of food and fuel.

First commanders are enjoined to restrict the issue of forage to actual requirements.

"First commanders are also enjoined to make every effort to confine delivery of food at their posts to the lowest limit."

The following excerpt from an order issued by Brigadier General Bliss, from the headquarters of the Department of California, is very pertinent.

It is the Hour-Hand of the Woodman's Celestial Clock.

The pole star is really the most important of the stars in our sky. It marks the north at all times. It alone is fixed in the heavens. All the other stars seem to swing around it once in twenty-four hours.

But the pole star of Polaris is not a very bright one, and it would be hard to identify but for the help of the so called pointers in the "Big Dipper," or "Great Bear."

The outer rim of the dipper points nearly to Polaris at a distance equal in three times the space that separates the two stars of the dipper's outer side. Various Indians called the pole star the "Home Star" and the "Star That Never Moves," and the dipper they call the "Broken Bear."

The "Great Bear" is also to be remembered as the pointers for another reason. It is the hour hand of the woodman's clock. It goes once around the north star in about twenty-four hours, the reverse way of the hands of a watch—that is, it goes the same way as the sun—and for the same reason—that is, the earth that is going and leaving them behind—Country, Life in America.

South Side at Homestead.

Fighting desperately with four men and a cripple, the Cokers for the last 10 minutes and 11 seconds of play at the county school last night had desperately against a garrison which which threatened to sweep victory from their grasp. They won, but the margin was too narrow for comfort. The result was a microcosm of the game, which had been expected. The crowd was almost silent as the more than 2,000 fans trudged out of the auditorium. Coker fans too relieved at the narrow escape to feel nobly jubilant and the Uniontown rooters keenly disappointed that Father Time ticked off his seconds too quickly for the Big B to get a basket that would have won the game.

It was a great contest. The Cokers found their bearings after the first five or 10 minutes of play and began to pull away from their opponents. Uniontown put up a strong defense, but was being carried off its feet. The second half started with the Cokers going good—once more, but after it was half over Pat Doyle was hit in the face with Smith's head. Pat continued the game but was plainly dazed. His defense was a great exhibition of nerve and grit. It was sheer courage on the part of his teammates that they took upon themselves the burden of holding Uniontown safe for the remaining 10 minutes of play.

The whole game last night resolved itself down to the last few minutes of play. Anything that happened before that was forgotten. The Cokers were for a time with 7 minutes and 10 seconds to go. They tried then to get Doyle straightened out. He pulled himself together, although his left eye was rapidly closing and the pain was severe. Then the whistle blew. The 19 men went in it for fair. The score then was 24 to 23 in favor of the Cokers. Halsey made a basket and made it 25 for Uniontown. Doherty and Dark got into action and landed a pair of neatly baskets, running the Cokers' total up to 25. Kummer having previously shot a foul, but the Big B boys were coming strong. Jimmy Brown had supplanted Perat and was jam full of pepper. He and he landed a pair of baskets, making the total 23 to 25. Brown's shot was a beauty. Then Halsey made a mighty lucky shot that gave the Uniontown boys 21 points. They needed then only a field goal to win the game.

It was at this point Uniontown asked for a time out. Two minutes' respite was granted. When the game was resumed it was up and tick. A foul was called and Steve White ended it, although his work from the line had not been other than very ordinary during the game. This made the score 23 to 22. When referee Boyd tossed the ball into the air once more a minute was left for play. There was a scramble and it was a minute and all 19 players were piled in an undisciplined mass. Out of it came Big Smith, the plant at center for Uniontown. Smith made a blind toss for the basket. The ball struck one edge of the iron ring, bounced over to the other, hung on the edge for hours, so it seemed, and then fell to the floor. After that it was football and a scramble to keep the ball out of the air. After that it was the press box rolled off the seconds to his teammates on the floor. Twenty seconds—fifteen seconds—ten seconds—five seconds—three seconds—two seconds—then a high of relief from the Coker fans and one of the appointment from the Uniontown rooters, for the ball touched the end of the half and the game was Connellsville's.

Picking a hero out of the Coker team for last night's game would be hard work. Every man did his part and played the game right up to the minute. Up to the time he was hurt Doyle was holding his own against the giant Smith who opposed him, and after he met with injury he gamely remained in the contest. Captain Billy Kummer's foul shooting was a feature. Kummer was never in better form. He shot his first foul missed two, shot two more and then missed one. After
